

I would like to comment re: Low Power FM possibly taking priority over current FM translator service. I am a home-based small business owner and have financially supported a local Christian Radio station (K-LOVE) for the last 2-1/2 years. Due to the fact that most local radio stations have become so offensive to listen to, (ie: dj's offensive content, music not family oriented), this radio station is one of the few that I listen to. This station promotes love and respect within family and community. My children have grown to enjoy this radio's programming and agree that the other stations in this local area are offensive to young kids and to themselves. They have told me that they wouldn't want their children to listen to the offensive content on some of the other local stations.

If K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster providing other programming, there would be a huge void in quite a few lives that this station touches. I have visited other local businesses and have heard K-LOVE's music playing in the background and it is very refreshing knowing that other business owners also share the same opinion as I.

It is in the public's best interest that K-LOVE remain on the local radio stations. I can travel anywhere in California or across the nation and listen to a K-LOVE broadcasting radio station. We took a trip to Colorado this past summer and were able to listen to good family oriented music in our car all the way there. This made such an impact on attitudes in the car! Children learn what they live. If they live in a society that accepts offensive behavior, that is what they become. Our children are our future. Please do not allow the LPFM's to take priority over the existing local current translator services. We need more "good" radio programming role models for our current and future generations.

Thank you for allowing me to express my feelings regarding this very important decision.
